PEACE REIGNS IN JOHNSON HOME

Attachment Suits Filed Against a Posey Township Farmer Were Dismissed by Plaintiff.

THE CREDITORS ARE SATISFIED

Said That Divorce Suit Filed by Mrs. Catherine Johnson Will Also be Dismissed.

Yesterday afternoon all of the attachment suits filed in the past few months against Joseph Johnson, a prominent farmer of Posey township, were dismissed by the plaintiffs and the costs paid by them. It is the close of a chain of suits which threatened to entangle a prominent farmer in such a manner that he would be unable to extricate himself. On top of all of the attachment suits, Mrs. Catherine Johnson, wife of Joseph S. Johnson, filed suit against him making some rather sensational charges. The trial has never been heard. It is now said that their differences have been settled, the divorce suit will be dismissed by Mrs. Johnson and the dove of peace will hover over the Johnson household once more.

The first suit was filed by the Rushville National bank for the payment of a note for $1350 and all of the banks and trust companies of Indianapolis, Miss Grace Hodges of Indianapolis, Lizzie Goldsberry, who signed her name to the note and Mrs. Catherine Johnson, were made defendants with Mr. Johnson in the attachment proceedings. Soon after the filing of the first suit by the local bank other creditors followed with similar suits in quick succession, William H. Sharer for $175, Albert B. Norris for $165 and attachment proceedings by Samuel Kennedy.

Attorneys employed by the plaintiffs made an attempt then to attach all of the Johnson property. Grace Hodges of Indianapolis, who alleged that $2900 of her money was being held by the Indianapolis Trust company, filed a replevin proceeding in the Marion Superior court against them and also against the sheriff of Marion county, whom she said unlawfully held an automobile and household goods belonging to her. The property in the possession of Grace Hodge was said to be property of Johnson, and for that reason was attached. The automobile was not to be found for a time but was later discovered and taken by the authorities.

Since the dismissal of all of the suits has been made, it means that the property has all been sold and the creditors have been satisfied. The costs were paid by the plaintiffs. It is said that the divorce suit will be dismissed by Mrs. Johnson and all will be quiet in the Johnson home. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, it will be remembered, started on a trip to Florida last winter and were delayed in a wreck at Jacksonville, Florida, in which both of them were injured. They filed suit against the railroad.

IMPROVEMENT FOR CARTHAGE PLANT

New Hundred Horse-Power Gas-Engine Will be Installed to Furnish Electricity.

OTHER CHANGES PROPOSED

Mr. Brennan, the new owner of the Carthage electric plant states that he has been unable to make arrangements with the street car company for current so will install a 100 horse power gas-engine at once, says the Carthage Citizen. This engine will be large enough to furnish all current for the town for some time. He says that he wants to have the new engine installed by the first of next month, and in the mean time the present equipment has been overhauled and will be able to take care of customers until the new engine arrives.

In this connection Mr. Brennan proposes to make changes in rates and to install electric motor pumping outfits for houses, which will supply a long felt want.

CHEERING MASS OF ENTHUSIASTS

Boarded I. & C. Special Car at One O'clock to Attend Oratorical Contest.

WILL WORK FOR A VICTORY

Miss Norma Smith Expected to Finish Near the Top—Has Good Chance.

A howling, cheering mass of enthusiasts boarded the special car at the I. & C. station at one o'clock this afternoon to go to Crawfordsville to cheer Miss Norma Smith, the local representative, on to victory. The State meeting of the Central Indiana High School Oratorical Association in which six schools will participate, will be held there tonight. About fifty people were on the special car which will be transferred to the Ben Hur route in Indianapolis and will run on through to Crawfordsville without a stop. The car was due in Crawfordsville this afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. The car will arrive here tomorrow morning about one o'clock.

Miss Norma Smith will speak on the subject, "The Wandering Jew," the same theme which she used in the primary contest here when she defeated ten other contestants for the honor. She is conceded by many to be a point winner and at least get within the money. Although Miss Smith has never had any experience, she has exceptionally good control over herself on the platform. Her strongest fort is her voice which is clear and carries well. In order to finish outside of the money she would have to draw the last position.

The car left early this afternoon so that the local students could take advantage of the many features offered this afternoon. Crawfordsville high school played DePauw academy and as a curtain raiser the Crawfordsville high school seniors met the seniors of the Lafayette high school. This evening a reception will be given for all the visitors at the new Knights of Pythias building.

The other speakers and the subjects of their declamations are as follows: "Work and Habit," Miss Lauretta Dick, Lafayette; "American Motherhood," Muriel Carson, Frankfort; "The Burial of the Guns," Frank Davidson, Crawfordsville; "An Extract From Robert Emmet's Speech When Under Sentence of Death," Ina Pursell, Noblesville, and "The Evolution of Conscience," Clarence Rudin, Lebanon.

The judges at the contest will be Professor H. B. Gough, head of the department of elocution DePauw university; George W. Benton, principal of Shortridge high school, Indianapolis, and Thomas C. Howe, president of Butler university.

Cash prizes will be awarded as follows: First, $35; second, $20, third, $15, fourth, $10, and fifth, $5. Every available seat has been sold while many more have been desired.

WHY NOT THE COMET?

Whenever a man gets drunk anywhere in the Sixth district the newspapers lay the blame on Wayne county in general and Cambridge City in particular. Of course the dry counties are too honest to bootleg.

OCCUPIED DAY IN COURT.

The quiet title suit of Delilah Barber vs. Rose C. Small was up in the circuit court today. A considerable amount of land was involved in the proceedings. Several attorneys from other cities were here on the case.

Oklahoma has the greatest Indian population of any of the states of this country, numbering 117,370.

COMET GAZING IS POOR STUNT

At Least so Several People Say Who Wandered the Streets This Morning in Vain.

ALSO IN VERY FEW CLOTHES

Several Court House Officials Bounce Out of Bed and Walk Blocks to See Comet.

Buzz, buzz, there goes that alarm clock and soon two bare feet hit the floor with a thud and he hurriedly throws on his clothes. No, he don't even take time to light his light for he only wants to dress just enough to keep from freezing to death. Shivering teeth chattering and only half awake he ties the last knot in his shoe string, pulls on his coat, ties a handkerchief around his neck, jerks his slouch hat down over his uncombed head and is off. He does not care how he looks because he does not think anyone else will see him.

But imagine his surprise when he gets to the street, to see many other pedestrians on the same mission. They are all out on the same errand, or perhaps sight-seeing would be better. But they are all sleepy and look sheepishly at each other, for neither one expected the other. Each traveler thought that he would be the only one out on the star-gazing trip. It was only three o'clock in the morning.

That's only a description which happened in many homes this morning, but they were all in vain, because the comet was not to be seen on account of the haze in the eastern horizon. Many were the sad and disappointed ones who wended their weary way back to their beds this morning for a few bits of sleep before sunrise after a comet-carousal. People living in Main street say that they were kept awake most of last night by people walking past their homes. At the end of North Main street a good clear view can be had of the eastern horizon. The railroad is also a favorite haunt for the cometites, for there, too, a good view of the sky in the east can be found.

Judge Will Sparks came to the court house this morning disgusted with the comet and told the officials that he had lost all faith in Santa Claus since he had arisen, dressed and walked several blocks just to get a view of the comet and then, see nothing. Many other honest confessions were made as to their wanderings about the city last night. Alvan Moor, county treasurer, said after some questioning that he, too, dressed and went in search of the comet, only to find disappointment. But disappointment did not satisfy him and he vowed never again. Birney Spradling, deputy clerk, was another of the comet victims, only that he was not forced to dress just to find that the comet was not showing itself.

All comet fiends have decided to swear off on this early-rising stunt.

TAKES NEWSPAPER JOB

Myron Green Accepts Position on the Muncie Press.

Myron Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Green, has accepted a position on the Muncie Press, a Republican newspaper, recently purchased by George Lockwood, owner and editor of the Marion Chronicle. Mr. Green was a student in Indiana University until this year and has always intended to enter the newspaper game. He has had considerable experience before.

and to assemble in the court house tower on the evening of the nineteenth when the great celestial show will take place. But seriously they are planning, several of them, to view the whole thing from the court house tower and it will, in a sense, be a comet party. It may be too high up for some people.

The comet will rise in the morning at 2:36, just four minutes later than yesterday morning, to be remembered by all those who arose early this morning. But here's discouraging news:

Prof. Forest R. Moulton of the University of Chicago, says that after this morning there will be little chance to view Halley's comet with the naked eye until shortly after May 18, the "big day." The heavenly visitor will return to view a few days later in the western sky shortly after sunset.

RUSHVILLE TO HAVE BALL TEAM

Organization Has Been Perfected and First Game Will be Played Sunday, May 22.

THE INDIANAPOLIS MAPLETONS

Personnel of the Team Shows Many Veterans as Well as Several Promising Youngsters.

That Rushville will have a baseball team this summer is now a certainty. A team has been organized and has been practicing several days. They will play their opening game here on Sunday, May 22, one week from next Sunday, with the Indianapolis Mapletons. All of the games will be played on the old diamond on the South Main street grounds. The Indianapolis aggregation which comes here for the first game is a strong one and a good game is assured. They have already started out the season with a winning streak and they hope to keep it up.

The grounds in South Main street will soon be put in shape for the summer game. Arrangements have been made to make a first class diamond out of the old baseball ground, such that will be good enough for any team to win on. The work of taking off the sod and fixing up the out field will be started the first of next week. Just as soon as the team gets in running order and everything is working smoothly, it is planned to build a large grand stand and a section of bleachers to accommodate the big crowds which are expected.

The question of ball players has not been worrying the promoters much, since there are many of the old players still here and enough young players to fill in the places of the men who have left this city for more fertile fields. It is believed that a winning team can soon be put in running order as there just enough of the "old heads" to keep the team in line and enough of the "youngsters" to put new blood into the team.

Of the older players, who used to knock the ball into Flatrock for a home run and "whoop 'em up" for Rushville, there are many left. "Windy" Morgan, the veteran catcher, who has done the back-stopping for Rushville teams for several years, is still ready to go into the game at any time and will be a member of this year's team. His "everyting today boy" would be sadly missed by any local team. Other players who have before appeared on the local diamond are Tompkins, Hendrix, Pittman, Ruby, and Geraghty, all of whom are known to the older fans. They need no introduction as they have all performed before Rushville crowds in a creditable manner on numerous occasions.

There is a bunch of younger players who have gained some experience with the "older heads." All of the youngsters are promising and will fill in so that the loss of older players will never be felt. Some of the younger players who will appear in the line-up this year are Pea, Gunning, Frazier, Brecheisen, Brown, Smith, Plummer, Boyd and Mattox.

It is urged that everyone interested in a team for Rushville this summer come out to the South Main street grounds next Sunday for practice. Two teams will be picked and a game will be played in preparation for the first game of the season with the Indianapolis team. Manager Conoway will arrange games with many other teams in surrounding cities, including Greensburg, Connersville, Shelbyville, New Castle, Knightstown, Columbus, Cambridge City and many Indianapolis teams.

Lesson VII.—Second Quarter,
For May 15, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xii, 22-32, 38-42—Memory Verse, 41—Golden Text, Matt. xii, 30—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

We have today the option of the regular lesson or a special lesson on the Holy Spirit, but as the lesson for the day gives opportunity for a study of the Holy Spirit we will continue regularly. First we see Him healing a demon possessed man who was both blind and dumb, and the man both spake and saw. The people were amazed and said, "Is not this the son of David?" perhaps recalling the words of Isa. xxxv, 5, 6, "Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped; then shall the lame man leap as an hart and the tongue of the dumb sing." Recently we saw Him heal a demon possessed dumb man (ix, 32, 33), but in this case the afflicted man was blind as well as dumb. But nothing is too hard for the Lord. Can we imagine a kingdom without sickness or infirmity or suffering of any kind? Yet that is what we expect and shall surely see in His time (Isa. xxxiii, 24; Rev. xxi, 1-4).

The blind Pharisees madly accuse Him of casting out demons by the power of the devil himself, as if Satan would cast out Satan and work against himself. How foolishly the devil does cause people to talk! They talk much more foolishly today when they say and teach that there is no devil at all and no hell. It would seem from verse 27 that unbelievers were permitted by their ruler to do some wonderful things, even as the magicians of Egypt counterfeited the miracles of Moses up to a certain point. We know from II Thess. ii, 9; Rev. xiii, 11-15, that at the end of this age the devil will specially deceive many by his miracles and signs and lying wonders. Our Lord Jesus said that if it were possible they would deceive the very elect (Matt. xxiv, 24), so we must not be deceived by the wonders wrought by the adversary in the name of spiritualism, Christian Science and other false teaching of our times. These things will continue and increase until the devil, the strong man of verse 29, shall have been bound and shut up in the bottomless pit for 1,000 years (Rev. xx, 1-3). The truth of God, just as it stands in His word, is the only power that will set us free from all delusions (John viii, 32, 36).

We are either with Christ or against Him, either taught by the spirit of God or the devil (verses 28, 30). If people resist the Holy Spirit and listen to the teaching of demons it is, as Jesus said, impossible to escape the damnation of hell (Matt. xxiii, 33). As I understand it the unpardonable sin of verses 31, 32, and I John v, 16, is the persistent turning from the Holy Spirit to the devil and attributing to the latter the works of the Spirit. Let it comfort and encourage any who fear they have committed the unpardonable sin to remember that the very fact that they have a fear of such guilt is evidence that the Holy Spirit has not left them, and, however far they may have wandered, if they will only turn to the Lord the word stands, "Him that cometh unto me I will in nowise cast out" (John vi, 37).

That words are an evidence of the condition of the heart (verse 34) should make us covet to have the word of God dwelling in us richly in order that our words may savor of Christ. It would be well to be like Elihu in Job xxxii, 18-20, and that would be the case if our experience was that of Job xxiii, 12; Jer. xv, 16. If we kept verse 36 of our lesson in mind it would make us more careful in view of Rom. xiv, 19, 12.

In verse 38 see these blind and foolish Pharisees asking for a sign after He had already wrought in their presence all the signs which the prophets had said would be done by the Messiah. No wonder that He called them an evil and adulterous (idol worshiping, world conformed) generation (verse 39), a generation of vipers (verse 34; xxiii, 33), of their father the devil (John viii, 44), for He knew them well and knew what was in them.

See in verses 40, 41, His indorsement of the story of Jonah and the great fish and Nineveh and her repentance, and no doubt He looked onward to the time when Israel, cast up on their shores by the nations, would become truly penitent at His appearance in glory and carry His message not to one city, but to all nations for their good. See in verse 42 His indorsement of the story of the queen of Sheba and the wisdom of Solomon, and doubtless He looked onward to the fulfillment of Isa. lx. Is he to us a greater than Jonah or Solomon or Moses or Aaron? Do we say, with great gratitude and gladness, "We have such an High Priest" (Heb. viii, 1; vii, 26; iv, 15), and have we as believers entered into rest? (Heb. iv, 3). Those who profess to be His friends and yet talk down the things that He believed are no friends of His, but rather belong to the company represented by the Pharisees of His day. Being rejected by the nation, whose rulers had determined to kill Him (verse 14). He is led, by a visit from His mother and His brethren, to declare, "Whosoever shall do the will of my Father, which is in heaven, the same is my brother and sister and mother" (verse 50). Compare Luke viii, 21.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning May 15, 1910.

Topic.—Christ's "verities."—John vi, 23, 24, 47, 53. Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The word "verily" has been defined by high authority as "a formula of asseveration or corroboration." The Hebrew word for it is simply "amen," the English being a transliteration of the Hebrew letters. The definition above refers to its uses, but the word "amen" in itself simply means "true," or, as generally understood, "be it so" or "let it be so." The word was used in two senses—first, to add impressiveness to a doctrine and, second, as a liturgical response to the prayers in the synagogues, which custom still prevails in some Christian churches. But "amen" and "verily" are the same words, though in its use for emphasis or impressiveness it is translated "verily," and as a liturgical response in prayer it consists simply of the words transliterated. It is unfortunate that the same word is not used on all occasions and preferably the translation "verily" rather than the mere transliteration "amen." There is one peculiarity of John's gospel as distinguished from the others, and that is that he repeats the verily, using "verily, verily," while the others use the word but once—"verily." John, being so intensely attached to Christ, may have "seen" the double emphasis that was not expressed and manifested it by two "verities." In Christ's use of it as a preface it was for the purpose of emphasis and impressiveness.

In the verses selected from the sixth chapter of John we have four illustrations of Christ's "verities." In each case the words are repeated—"Verily, verily, I say unto you." This use of it was to emphasize that what He was to say was true, and we can well, therefore, study the principles or truths uttered with this double emphasis before them. The occasion upon which He uttered them was the feeding of the 5,000, or rather the result following that supreme miracle. The people still crowded about Him the next day, and their presence called forth the discourse in which these various "verities" are found.

The first "verities" prefaced the declaration that they sought Him for a false reason and, of course, would not be profited by it. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, ye seek Me not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat the loaves and were filled." They had not become His true disciples, recognizing in Him the Messiah because of His miracle, but only for their personal gain. He had fed them, and they supposed that He would continue to do so by the use of His miraculous power. But they were sadly mistaken and have many successors today. Many still seek Christ for the "loaves and fishes." They look upon Christianity as a means of personal gain. It is not spiritual life that they want, but the body to be fed or through the church to obtain some temporal benefit which they desire. But, alas, such professing Christians will some day find their mistake. The church will not always be a cloak to a scoundrel, nor should it be criticised, but congratulated, when one such has shown his true colors. In the second "verities" Christ sets forth His superiority as the bread of life. The manna was given by God and not by Moses, and He Himself was the true bread of heaven. The meaning is spiritual, of course. As bread is necessary to the physical life, so Christ is necessary to the spiritual life. Further on He emphasizes the same truths practically by the declarations that "He that believeth on me hath everlasting life" and "Except ye eat of the flesh of the Son of Man and drink of His blood (partake of the benefits of His broken body and shed blood on Calvary) ye have no life in you." These facts are true, and we as well as Christ should emphasize them.

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

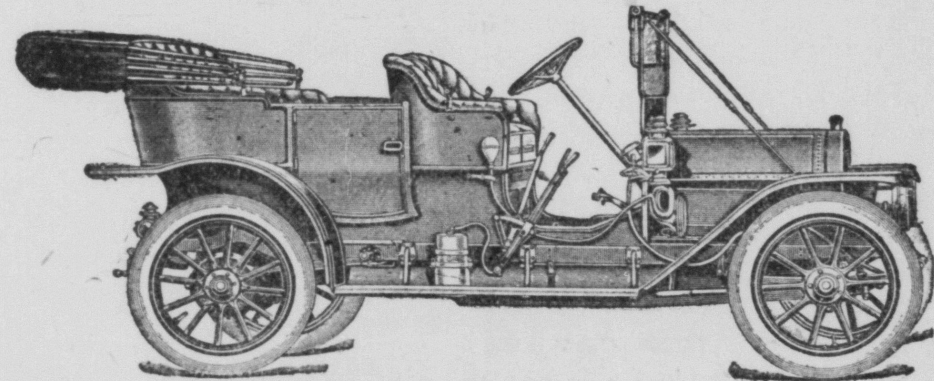

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Colonel Roosevelt's phrase, "The Fighting Edge," used in his Berlin speech on the subject "The World Movement," made a favorable impression on the Germans and struck a responsive chord. This is because the Germans, as a rule, lean favorably toward Roosevelt's twin doctrines—fighting and fathering, which are compliments of each other. The more prolific a people becomes, the more it will be necessary that every man be a fighter. Population will press upon the means of subsistence, and there will be strife for possession of productive land. In this event people unprepared to defend their country will lose. Fecundity will not, however, infallibly increase the country's census, which is raised more by lessening the death rate than by stimulating births, for large families naturally have more deaths in proportion than small ones. Mr. Roosevelt thoughtfully provides for keeping population within the limits of subsistence by advocating a sort of spirit and training that appeals first to the sword—The Fighting Edge.

Random Notes From New York

By Tom J. Geraghty, in Which He Gives Interesting Glimpses of His Daily Movements

Missed the Republican now for two days. I notice that whenever Uncle Sammy is thusly dillitory I find a feeling of loneliness reaching out and taking a strange hold on my heart. I can fully appreciate now why our friends on the rural routes used to come in and put up a sixty dollar roar every time they peeped in their "regulation" U. S. box after the mail man had passed and found it empty and the Republican missing. In the future exercise more precaution in sending out your New York package—else I will quit taking the paper, the way I do, and pay you for it.

We are moving—that's the big news with me. Understand we do not intend to join the Van Dwellers, but as the kids didn't take kindly to playing on the roof and walking a tight rope from one flat to another for diversion, at the place we are leaving today, I had to pull stakes. We are taking a place just across from Central Park and our Peter Pans have free use of the park for a play ground where they can romp, ride ponies, sail boats, play tennis, roller skate, play bridge whist, duck-on-davy, hop scotch and on Sundays ride the elephants. That's enough for any one family—Rooseveltian or otherwise.

Central park is without a doubt, a great institution. Seems like it's as big as Cincinnati—you never get through exploring it. About three-fourths of it is actually as wild and picturesque as Brown county. The hundreds of pet squirrels and park policemen are very tame and will eat peanuts out of your hand. I do so love a perfectly mannered squirrel. Then another thing, I expect to take up horseback riding. A friend here in the Herald office, who lives hard by the park, has a stub-tailed steed and talks horse by the hour. But before I order a horse I am going in training on a merry-go-round near the menagerie grounds, and practice till I can grab the brass ring with a fingerless mitten.

But moving is a pleasure and a delight forever, here. All you have to do is to pick out a padded van, slide your furniture down a chute, roll up your rugs and you're off. Then the head of the household—myself in this instance—follows the wagon at a safe distance, with a broad smile, like a boy trailing a clown in a circus parade. I had a framed autograph photograph of Watson under one arm, a Mason jar of home-made kraut under the other, in one hand an old fashioned near-silver (but pewter) table eastor and a history of Rush county in the other. That constituted my personal effort and labor. Really, it's easier to move than it used to be to get the family ready to take them to the county fair for one day.

Now! Well, there are so many things to relate that like, heretofore, I suppose I shall fail to mention any of them and drift off on a lot of common-place bunk. I shall not try to write connectingly, but just soar around. To begin with, as soon as I finish this, am going up to Sherry's (a little the smartest place in town) to hear Carl Morris in a musical recital. There is a young man all of Rush county should be proud of, for he is not only doing big things, but accepts his phenomenal success with good grace and is happily void of all affections. He is early scheduled to sing in a number of swell homes in Fifth avenue where the "cream" of the country will be.

Saw George Ade last night. He spoke before the publishers, who are convening here, at a banquet in the Waldorf. It was a "right pert" event, for Mayor Gaynor put on the gloves with Willie Hearst and called him some awful names. Police called in, and all that sort of thing. The toast-master was Nat Wright, an editor of Cleveland, Ohio. He is a brother of Mr. Wright, auditor of the I. & C. in the general offices at Rushville, and quite a big figure in the newspaper publishing world.

I was turning in to a banquet at Hotel Astor Saturday night when I heard someone call out my name. Turned around and there, big as life and twice as handsome, stood Tom Havens, from the old homestead. He was just in town for a few hours, coming here to see the managers of the beech-nut firm for whom he travels. It's just as easy to see people here from home as it is at the State Fair. Got a post card from John Aberrombie that he was in town, but am sorry I missed seeing him.

Here's another one. In New York most of the barber poles are those whirl-a-gig, dancing, two-step, red, white and blue contrivances. Everytime I looked upon one I thought of Prof. Brown, our old reliable tonsorial artist, and the time I defaced a board he had in front of his place down on old Noble (now First) street. Then I had a happy thought—one that brought me twelve dollars with two hours' work. I thought I would write a little feature story for the Sunday Herald on "The Evolution of the Barber Pole." Silly stuff, but still people read it and it's easy to write. I went down to a barber pole factory, but they didn't know anything. Actually, the head of the firm, who has made a fortune in the business, didn't know why the poles were painted red, white and blue, and why they were striped. I had a notion to spring that old gag about "Why did Grover Cleveland wear red, white and blue suspenders?" Anyway, he was very courteous and told me there was an expert in town named Rogers, but he didn't know at what hotel he was stopping. I dug up Rogers soon afterwards at the Hotel Breslin. Yes, he would be glad to tell me all he knew about it. And he did. And I got my story. Also a fine strop, gold mounted, which he presented to me. Then we talked further. When he told me he was from St. Louis, I proudly echoed "Indiana." One Middle West man likes to meet another. It's just like meeting a new second or third cousin at the Mauzy or Newhouse family picnics. Soon Indiana was narrowed down to Rushville. It was mighty refreshing to hear him break out:

"Rushville! Why, I know lots of people there. I sold Frank Early that outfit he is now using. Used to call on Mr. and Mrs. Phil Olinger often, knew Hugo Schmalzel, Charley Moore, Allen Daniels, Norm Norris Joe Demmer, Ches James and a lot of the boys. That's one of the finest barber shop towns in the country for it's size, etc., etc."

Having a fine lot of experience, always intense with interest and enough change about it to always keep it refreshing, so one does not lose his enthusiasm. It's one business where you do not know what another sun will bring. You report for duty and then you are assigned to go out on a story, which for the most part means the remainder of the day. Often you take along an artist and photographer, if the story warrants. I had the Wolter murder story for five days and it was a most atrocious affair. Luckily, I was the first newspaper man to arrive at the house when they found the Wheeler girl's charred and maimed body wrapped in a gunny sack on the fire escape. It was about as gresome as anything one could imagine. Most of the body burned away and the legs and arms were broken so the fiend could chuck her in a fireplace where he burned her alive. While it was revolting to think of, still it was interesting. The newspaper men do nearly all the detective work in such cases. They get out and dig around and the officials follow afterwards as a rule. All of us have police cards which permit of a wide leverage in dealing with people.

I met Mark Twain when he came on the boat from Bermuda and accompanied him to the Grand Central Station. I saw him take one long hopeless look out the car window as the train steamed out. It was but a few days before his death, but still he possessed all his faculties and I know he was thinking then that it was his farewell to the New York he loved so well. Then I saw him again last Saturday when they brought his body here and had it lying in state in a Fifth avenue church. Hundreds of people broke into sobs as they looked down into his face. He surely was much beloved here.

Funny things about assignments. A bright, big, lovely April day recently I put on my joy clothes—and yes, even went so far as to stop at a florist and buy a modest white carnation—then took a long jaunt down Gasoline Way (Fifth avenue) enjoying myself immensely. The day before I had been up to see Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Mrs. Sloane—NOT SOCIALLY—and I had a premonition that I was going to the office and they were going to give me a nice perfumed assignment, which might include a taxi ride through the park or along Riverside Drive. I felt it in my bones—I might say, my wish bones. When I came brushing in the office they called me over to the stud-poker desk and said:

"We have information from the police in Baltimore that a woman leper has escaped there and is now in New York. Go out and see if you can find her."

That's how near dreams come true. I thought about trading my carnation for a pair of rubber gloves or a can of disinfectant. Only clew I had was that she was the wife of an Italian fruit and commission dealer. Turned my nose forthwith to Little Italy. The search was full of incidents, but I will pass on and say I found her. Back in a squalid tenement house in First avenue the woman was in bed with her eight month old baby. I phoned a doctor friend and asked him if there was any danger of contagion in leprosy and he informed me that very rarely was the affliction transmitted to another. I mounted the dingy, dark and dreary staircase and was ushered into a home of abject destitution. At least fifteen persons were huddled together in four small and scant rooms. The leper was frightened at my entrance and thought I had come to take her away, and that she was to be banished and isolated. She hugged her baby close to her breast and broke out in heart-rending sobs. She spoke English and the tale she subsequently unfolded was as pitiable as any I ever heard from human lips. She had been afflicted for six months and all that time she lived in constant fear of being detected, taken away from her husband, baby and home. Her face and body was covered with marks of the loathsome plague. There she was, an object to be shunned, and almost despised, by those who came in contact with her, and above all she was fully conscious that there was no hope for recovery, that she was doomed to die a slow death, a torture of both mind and body. I've seen several fellows led off to Sing Sing, candidates for the electric chair, seen them torn away from family and friends—sometimes a mother hanging on their neck refusing to be shaken off but such scenes seem mild and tame, besides this one. But I got a good story, first hand, from the lips of a leper, which was readable, to say the least, and I gave the baby the white carnation.

See where you have been having some politics. New York papers, especially the Sun, carries gobs and oodles about Hoosier politics. Sun pokes a lot of fun at Beveridge and two others whom they call near-Senators. Seated in the grandstand over here, it did look lot like Tom Taggart or rather Kern was going to succeed Albert J. The insurgents everywhere, I believe, are going to have the battle of their lives to be returned for the farmer vote control most every State in the Union. When farmers are soaring around in grand and glorious automobiles—and more power to them, for if anyone deserves the good things of life, it is these very same farmers, who have toiled long creating wealth and getting a very small share of it—going off to Palm Beach and to California (fellow told me the other day after he returned from Florida that there were nothing down there at the swell resorts but millionaires and prosperous farmers) buying stocks and gilt edge securities, and with their families dressed in the best that money can buy I say, it is going to take more than spit-fire spell binding soggy literature and subsidized newspapers to make them believe that the country has gone to the eternal bow-wows and that the corner stone of the Republican party, the protective tariff, is a bad thing. Impossible to preach that sort of stuff anymore, for the people are too intelligent, and the farmers have about the highest batting averages in that particular commodity—intelligence.

As I was saying things were looking blue for "Our Albert," but since the Democrat State convention a lot of luck surely fell in his lap. While he may not be returned I don't think they can beat him by a margin now with the Democratic house divided against itself. If the Democrats of Indiana would realize that the only honors that have come to the State in their ranks for many years past have come through the agency of Taggart (i. e. Kern's many political dips; Shively; his own recognition in the national party councils, etc.) and appreciating that, would faithfully rally to his support, then victory might have been theirs. But like President Grant—or someone, I forget who exactly—once wisely said that Republicans need never fear the Democrats for they could be relied upon always to do the wrong thing at the right time.

Stopped long enough just now to look out the window and see Edward P. Weston, the cross country pedestrian, pass through Herald Square. A "platoon" of automobiles acted as his escort, a band was playing a lively, triumphant march and a great crowd was at his heels. By the way, it was a great day for O'Sullivan rubber heels. I'll bet there wasn't hardly an hour of his trip of 3300 miles across the continent but what he thought of this jaunt down Broadway. People here go wild about such things. Easiest people in the world to get stired up and move to enthusiasm.

Going to inject a little advertisement in here just now for the mutual benefit of any whom it may concern. Charley Study, son of Judge Study, formerly of Rushville, asked me last night if I knew of any people from home who were thinking of coming to New York for a vacation this summer. With his wife and baby he said he was going out to live on the seashore in a bungalow for two months or more. He has a cozy flat of three or four rooms and bath, and if he could find someone he knew to be O. K. from home, he would sublet it "furnished," very cheap. (Remember I do not get any commission for acting as agent and the expense of flat rental will be free from agent fees.)

Now, I don't want it understood that I am a "gadabout" and pace the highways and by ways here continually. Nothing of the sort, for I have my nose in my typewriter about half of the time I am awake. But it seems like I do meet "the mostest people." It only emphasizes what I have mentioned before—about New York being a very small place after all. Other morning, (very early) after I had finished work and was strolling up Broadway, ran headlong into Percy Walker from home. He was just here for one day and night and had been attending a cattlemen's convention and banquet. There was only a scattering few of "night workers" and Halley comet gazers in the Gay White Way at that hour and I was just as much surprised to see Percy old boy, as he was to see me. We had a short conflag on things at home, and from a Jersey standpoint (not the commonwealth, however.)

N. B. (You have probably noticed by this time, if you have not tired reading this bunk, that I have been writing it in relays. I noticed where I said "today" that now a week has elapsed since then. To continue the blooming narrative, however—)

King Edward died since I began writing you all. Don't want to appear void of sentiment, for really I did admire the King, but it made easy going for us fellows for the past several days. Newspapers of, course, have been filled with matter coming under London date line, and little else.

Had a long interview with Buffalo Bill about his experience with the King and royalty in England; during the several trips he made to that country. He told many interesting tales about King Edward and the good, wholesome, jolly. Democratic times they had together. Buffalo Bill's jewelry (and the only pieces he ever wore in his life) are a diamond ring and stick pin presented to him by King Edward. He has worn them constantly since they were given to him.

Going over to the Astor Fair this afternoon to see President Taft open the fair. His body guard will be a bevy of Broadway's stellar actresses—but that they will not be in "plain clothes" goes without saying.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace management offers an extra good program tonight in the film, "The Cowboy's Devotion," a drama of much merit. It is a Lubin picture and is said to be one of the best ever shown here. The story, which is reproduced on the film is a simple little tale of a westerner's love for the woman of his choice and how he shows it. It is said to be so intensely interesting and as full of real human pathos as is possible. Miss Iva Brown will sing an illustrated song, which is one of the most popular catchy numbers out this season.

The Star Grand presents tonight one of the Melies films entitled "Speed Versus Death." It is a drama and shows a magnificent display of courage, true love and furious horsemanship in the face of danger to stay the hand of death. The lightning like speed and thrilling horsemanship displayed by the wife of a young western settler makes Paul Revere's ride a mere joy-ride. This picture is out of the ordinary, because of its extraordinary features of venture and fearlessness. Earl Robertson will sing "I'm Sighing For You."

The Vaudet has a good program tonight in the film, "The Song that Reached Her Heart." It is an intensely human drama taken from the life of a young woman and a young lieutenant, who are in love. He sings to her, accompanying on his guitar, and all is well for a time. The young officer is ordered to ship and he sails. His sweetheart reads of the wrecking of his ship by an explosion and loses her reason. The manner in which it is returned to her is novel and unique and reads like a fairy tale from a page of life's story book. Mr. Jones will sing a new illustrated sang.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidney are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerves. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by F. E. Wolcott.

Alicia's face flushed with anger. Turning to the maid, she said: "There's no answer."

The girl was about to close the door when her mistress suddenly recalled her.

"Wait a minute," she said; "I'll write a line."

Taking from her dainty escritoire a sheet of perfumed notepaper, she wrote hurriedly as follows:

"If you dare to come near my house to-night I will have you put out by the servants."

Quickly folding the note, she crushed it into an envelope, sealed it, handed it to the girl, and said:

"Give that to the messenger."

The servant disappeared and Alicia resumed her work of drawing on her gloves in front of her mirror. How dare he write her such a letter? Was her house to be made the headquarters for his swindling schemes? Did he want to cheat more of her friends? The more she thought of all he had done, the angrier she became. Her eyes flashed and her bosom heaved with indignation. She wondered what her husband, the soul of honor, would say if he suspected that she had permitted a man of Underwood's character to use his home for his dishonest practices. She was glad she had ended it now, before it was too late. There might have been a scandal, and that she must avoid at any cost. Mr. Jeffries, she felt certain, would not tolerate a scandal of any kind.

All at once she felt something brush her cheek. She turned quickly. It was her husband who had entered the room quietly.

"Oh, Howard," she exclaimed, peevishly; "how you frightened me! You shouldn't startle me like that."

A tall, distinguished-looking man with white mustache and pointed beard stood admiring her in silence.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of humanity? Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

There is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best effort is surely yours your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity. I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

His erect figure, admirably set off in a well-cut dress coat suggested the soldier.

"What are you doing alone here, dear?" he said. "I hear carriages outside. Our guests are arriving."

"Just thinking, that's all," she replied, evasively.

He noticed her preoccupied look and, with some concern, he demanded: "There's nothing to worry you, is there?"

"Oh, no—nothing like that," she said, hastily.

He looked at her closely and she averted her eyes. Mr. Jeffries often wondered if he had made a mistake. He felt that this woman to whom he had given his name did not love him, but his vanity as much as his pride prevented him from acknowledging it, even to himself. After all, what did he care? She was a companion, she graced his home and looked after his creature comforts. Perhaps no reasonable man should expect anything more. Carelessly, he asked: "Whom do you expect to-night?"

"Oh, the usual crowd," replied Alicia, languidly. "Dr. Bernstein is coming—you know he's quite the rage just now. He has to do with psychology and all that sort of thing."

"So, he's your lion to-night, is he?" smiled the banker. Then he went on:

"By the by, I met Brewster at the club to-night. He promised to drop in."

Now it was Alicia's turn to smile. It was not everybody who could boast of having such a distinguished lawyer as Judge Brewster on their calling lists. To-night would certainly be a success—two lions instead of one.

For the moment she forgot her worry. "I am delighted that the judge is coming," she exclaimed, her face beaming. "Every one is talking about him since his brilliant speech for the defense in that murder case."

The banker noted his wife's beautiful hair and the white transparency of her skin. His gaze lingered on the graceful lines of her neck and bosom, glittering with precious stones. An exquisite aroma exuding from her person reached where he stood. His eyes grew more ardent and, passing his arm affectionately around her slender waist, he asked:

"How does my little girl like her tiara?"

"It's very nice. Don't you see I'm wearing it to-night?" she replied almost impatiently and drawing herself away.

Before Mr. Jeffries had time to reply there was a commotion at the other end of the reception room, where rich tapestries screened off the main entrance hall. The butler drew the curtains aside.

"Mr. and Mrs. Cortwright," he announced loudly.

Alicia went forward, followed by her husband, to greet her guests.

CHAPTER IV.

The richly decorated reception rooms, brilliantly illuminated with soft incandescent lights artistically arranged behind banks of flowers, were filled with people. In the air was the familiar buzz always present in a room where each person is trying to speak at the same time. On all sides one heard fragments of inept conversation.

"So good of you to come! How well you're looking, my dear."

"My husband? Oh, he's at the club, playing poker, as usual. He hates music."

"I've such a terrible cold!"

"Trouble with servants? I should say so. I bounced my cook this morning."

"Aren't these affairs awfully tiresome?"

"I was so glad to come. I always enjoy your musicales."

"Dr. Bernstein coming? How perfectly delightful. I'll ask him for his autograph."

"What's psychology?"

"Something to do with religion, I think."

"Haven't we been having dreadful weather?"

"I saw you at the opera."

"Doesn't she look sweet?"

"Oh, I think it's just lovely."

People now arrived in quick succession and, forming little groups, the room soon presented an animated scene. The women in their smart gowns and the men in their black coats made a pleasing picture.

"My dear Mrs. Jeffries, how do you do this evening?" exclaimed a rich, deep voice.

The hostess turned to greet an elderly and distinguished-looking man who had just entered. Directly he came in voices were hushed, and on every side one heard the whisper: "There's Judge Brewster, the famous lawyer."

There was a general craning of necks to catch a glimpse of the eminent jurist whose brilliant address to the jury in a recent cause celebre had saved an innocent man from the electric chair.

Richard Brewster was a fine example of the old school statesman-lawyer of the Henry Clay type. He belonged to that small class of public men who are independent of all coteries, whose only ambition is to serve their country well, who know no other duty than that dictated by their oath and conscience. A brilliant and forceful orator, there was no office in the gift of the nation that might not have been his for the asking, but he had no taste for politics. After serving with honor for some years on the bench he retired into private practice, and thereafter his name became one to conjure with in the law courts. By sheer power of his matchless oratory and unanswerable logic he won case after case for his clients and it is a tribute to his name to record the plain fact that in all his career he never championed a cause of which he need be ashamed. Powerful financial interests had attempted to secure his services by offers of princely retainers, but without success. He fought the trusts bit-

GET INSIDE

Your Friends and Neighbors in Rushville Will Show You How.

Rubbing the back won't cure backache.

A liniment may relieve, but can't cure.

Backache comes from the inside— from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills get inside— Here is Rushville proof that this is so:

Samuel A. Brown, 527 West First street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know from personal experience that they live up to the claims made for them. About three years ago I was suddenly taken with an attack of backache and it steadily grew worse. I could hardly raise my foot from the ground and if I stooped it really seemed as if my back was going to break. When someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and was certainly surprised by their promptness in relieving me. In three days I was free from backache and felt better in every way. Since then I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store and have seldom been without a supply in the house. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of the highest praise."

terly every time he found them oppressing his profession.

Alicia advanced with extended hand. "This is indeed kind, judge," she exclaimed with a gracious smile. "I hardly dared hope that my poor musicale would be so honored."

The old lawyer smiled good-humoredly as he replied gallantly:

"I don't know much about music, m'm; I came to see you." Looking around he added: "You've got a nice place here."

He spoke in his characteristic manner—short, nervous, explosive sentences, which had often terrified his opponents in court.

"Lawyers are such flatterers," laughed Alicia as she nervously fanned herself, and looked around to see if her guests were watching.

"Lawyers only flatter when they want to," interrupted Mr. Jeffries, who had just joined the group.

Alicia turned to greet a new arrival and the lawyer continued chatting with his host.

"I suppose you'll take a rest now, after your splendid victory," said the banker.

Judge Brewster shook his head dubiously.

"No, sir, we lawyers never rest. We can't. No sooner is one case disposed of than another crops up to claim our attention. The trouble with this country is that we have too much law. If I were to be guilty of an epigram I would say that the country has so much law that it is practically lawless."

"So you're preparing another case, eh?" said Mr. Jeffries, interested.

"What is it—a secret?"

"Oh, no!" answered the lawyer, "the newspapers will be full of it in a day or two. We are going to bring suit against the city. It's really a test case that should interest every citizen; a protest against the high-handed actions of the police."

The banker elevated his eyebrows. "Indeed," he exclaimed. "What have the police been doing now?"

The lawyer looked at his client in surprise.

"Why, my dear sir, you must have seen by the papers what's been going on in our city of late. The papers have been full of it. Police brutality, illegal arrests, assaults in station houses, star-chamber methods that would disgrace the middle ages. A state of affairs exists to-day in the city of New York which is inconceivable. Here we are living in a civilized country, every man's liberty is guaranteed by the constitution, yet citizens, as they walk our streets, are in greater peril than the inhabitants of terror-stricken Russia. Take a police official of Capt. Clinton's type. His only notion of the law is brute force and the night stick. A bully by nature, a man of the coarsest instincts and enormous physical strength, he loves to play the tyrant. In his precinct he poses as a kind of czar and fondly imagines he has the power to administer the law itself. By his brow-beating tactics, intolerable under Anglo-Saxon government, he is turning our police force into a gang of ruffians who have the city terror-stricken. In order to further his political ambitions he stops at nothing. He lets the guilty escape when influence he can't resist is brought to bear, but in order to keep up his record with the department he makes arrests without the slightest justification. To secure convictions he manufactures, with the aid of his detectives, all kinds of perjured evidence. To paraphrase a well-known saying, his motto is: 'Convict—honestly, if you can—but convict.'"

"It is outrageous," said Mr. Jeffries. "No one can approve such methods. Of course, in dealing with the criminal population of a great city, they cannot wear kid gloves, but Capt. Clinton certainly goes too far. What is the specific complaint on which the suit is based?"

It's Up to Taxpayer

A man was heard complaining recently that the county treasurer had not informed him of taxes on a certain piece of property and that he had had to pay a delinquent fee much larger than the assessment in order to clear the title. The complaint and similar ones brings up a question as "old as the hills." The law does not require the treasurer, and it is quite impossible for him to do so, to be able to know on what property each taxpayer should pay. It is clearly the taxpayer's part of the transaction to know on what property he owes and to have a mental or written list of the same when he goes to the treasurer's office. Then it is that official's business to inform him of the amount of the assessments.

If the man who owns the property does not do this, the treasurer cannot be blamed, for the law does not require him to keep track of the business of thousands and thousands of taxpayers.

STOMACH DEAD; MAN STILL LIVES

People who suffer from sour stomach, fermentation of food, distress after eating and indigestion, and seek relief in large chunks of artificial digestors, are killing their stomach by inaction just as surely as the victim of morphine is deadening and injuring beyond repair every nerve in his body.

What the stomach of every sufferer from indigestion needs is a good prescription that will build up his stomach, put strength, energy and elasticity into it, and make it sturdy enough to digest a hearty meal without artificial aid.

The best prescription for indigestion ever written is sold by druggists everywhere and by F. B. Johnson & Co. in Rushville and is rigidly guaranteed to build up the stomach and cure indigestion, or money back.

This prescription is named Mi-ona, and is sold in small tablet form in large boxes, for only 50 cents. Remember the name, Mi-ona stomach tablets. They never fail. They contain ingredients that give quick relief (other than strong digestion) but they are compounded for the purpose of making the stomach strong and energetic enough to do its work without the aid of harmful drugs.

The Connersville May Festival

A Highly Creditable and Successful Musical Event—
Notes and Criticisms by "A Listener"

Last night's performance of "The Creation" concluded the three concerts of the Connersville May Festival and I am sure I voice the sentiment of all the listeners who filled Connersville's beautiful theater when I say that all were pleased with the concert.

Too much credit cannot be given to the promoters of the Festival and to the good people of Connersville for the success achieved. Mr. E. D. Johnston has long been recognized by the citizens of Fayette county as a gentleman of ability and culture and it was surely a great pleasure to the patrons of the concert last night to see him publicly recognized as the great moving spirit of the Festival. He and his brilliant wife merit all the honor shown them and it is really a pleasure to see one realize that his efforts and his love of the good and the beautiful are appreciated and that he receives the boquets in this life and not after his spirit has gone to its long home. In response to the public recognition given him Mr. Johnston made a very happy talk giving honor to all who worked for the success of the Festival.

The Creation is a very beautiful oratorio and was composed by J. Hadyn in the years 1797 and 1798. It tells of the creation of the earth, of man, and tells so beautifully of the verdure and of "The Happy Pair." It is what is termed a happy medium, the lovers of Handel's music as well as lovers of music of the lighter vein, appreciate it.

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, of course, was the artistic success of the festival. This orchestra has long been recognized as one of great merit and it played with a dash that should have awakened the artistic temperament of the tenor and the soprano. It surely is a great inspiration to be surrounded by a great body of musicians like those composing this orchestra.

Otto Meissner, baritone, sang the part of Raphael, Neils Hougard Nielson, tenor, sang Uriel and Mrs. Dorthea North, soprano, sang Gabriel. Space will not permit an analytic criticism of these singers, but will say that Mr. Meissner has not naturally as great a voice as either one of the other singers, but he has by far a greater knowledge of oratorio singing and it was a delight to hear him sing in comparison with the others, even if his voice was not as pleasing as one would wish and even if he did at one time get lost. Mrs. North did not rise to the occasion in the beautiful air "With Verdure Clad," neither did Mr. Nielson in his recitative, "And God Created Man," and the air "In Native Worth" following. Both Mrs. North and Mr. Nielson have good natural voices, but they must open up their throats, sing with an abandon and get away from the close scrutiny of the text or they will never make a great success in the concert work.

But the chorus must not be forgotten. It sang well and is the best chorus I ever heard in a city of the size of Connersville and surely her citizens are proud of it. L. M. Tilson conducted the chorus and while, in a place or two the effect was spoiled by his slow tempo and at one time he was completely lost and while his manner lacked zeal to arouse, yet, in the main, the chorus performance was very creditable and deserves great praise.

Surely Connersville has every reason to be proud of its Festival and Rushville greets its success with great pride. A LISTENER.

have adopted the program, which is a very excellent one. Secretary Voris, who originated the rapid canvas, is a graduate of the Chicago University Divinity School, a man who has had considerable Y. Fund Will Pay the Expenses of Many

Famous Speakers For the Coming Year.

The Y. M. C. A. of Indiana University at Bloomington has begun a campaign which is unique in the fact that it is the first time that such a thing has ever been tried at a college. Under the leadership of John R. Voris, who has recently taken charge of the work at the State school an attempt is being made to raise a budget of $3000 in one week, May 9 to 15.

This budget is to be used in various ways, but the money is all to return, indirectly to the students of the University. It will pay the expenses of a number of famous speakers who have been engaged for the coming school year. It will finance various social entertainments which the Association is planning and will put under way a number of other movements which will be of great benefit to the student body. A committee of sixty men are to do the work which will be very systematic. A huge clock on the campus will give the amount raised each date as well as the work of individual members. At noon on all six days, the members of the committee will assemble at the University for luncheon and a discussion of the progress of the movement. It is the intention to raise $1,000 from the students, as much from the townspeople and faculty, and the same amount from alumni.

The ministers of the city are giving the canvass their earnest support, for the Y. M. C. A. will be made the arm of the federated churches in the school. A committee of the ministers

Rev. Robinson is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and has been employed in national campaigns by both State and national committees. He spoke in Connersville during the campaign of 1906, and delivered a very pleasing speech.

He has been a general officer of the National Association of Colored Baptists of the country, and while thus employed, made extensive trips to the old world, visiting many points of interest in Great Britain, France and Germany. He, therefore, has had a wide acquaintance with peoples under the varying conditions of life, and is especially well equipped for discussion along ethnological and moral lines.

He comes under the management of the local lodge of colored Masons, Oriental lodge No. 42. It is the intention of this lodge to bring several distinguished colored men here from time to time, to lecture to the people in general and to colored people in particular. In Rev. Robinson, the management feels that they have a lecturer of great merit.

He was in the city Sunday, the guest of Prof. Williams. He preached an able and eloquent sermon at the Second Baptist church Sunday night and all who heard it announced their intention of attending his lecture.

His appearance here will be a first rate opportunity for persons interested in the problem of the races to get a lot of reliable information in regard to the future prospects of the negro in America.

The trip will be made in a special car over the I. & C. traction line.

The fare for the round trip will be $1.45 for the round trip, good only on the special car. No tickets will be sold without the consent of the committee. All those who have planned to go are urged to purchase their tickets of either Alva Newhouse, Joe Miller or Frank McIlwain not later than Monday or of the ticket agent on Wednesday. What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

ORGANIZE BOOSTER CLUB.

(Greensburg News.)

St. Paul now has a booster club, a commercial organization that will as soon as they get into the harness make things hum, and raise the little city into the ranks of those thriving municipalities that do things. About fifty-five of the leading citizens of the community met last night and perfected their organization by the election of officers and committees.

The club will endeavor to raise a capital stock of $300,000 and have decided to hold meetings the first and third Wednesday evening of each month.

They have a number of commercial propositions in view and do not intend to sit back and wait for things to come their way when their organization has been fully perfected as some similar organizations are wont to do, but to get busy at once and keep on the go until the business interests of St. Paul are humming.
